

Bahamas Marine Mammal Research Organisation 20th Anniversary T-Shirt Contest!

The Bahamas Marine Mammal Research Organisation (BMMRO) was founded to promote the local and global conservation of marine mammals and their natural habitats. This is achieved by conducting scientific field studies in The Bahamas and disseminating the results to local policy makers and the international scientific community, and by developing environmental education programmes to raise awareness and appreciation of marine mammals amongst Bahamians. We are dedicated to conducting long-term studies, are open to partnerships and collaborations, and provide opportunities for other scientists, through data sharing and field training.

BMMRO has been conducting a long-term study documenting the occurrence, distribution, and abundance of marine mammals around the islands of The Bahamas since 1991. Currently based in Sandy Point on Great Abaco Island, this project provides the only comprehensive documentation of marine mammal fauna in this part of the world.
